Gagagoogoo

Written & Illustrated by
Bill Greenberg

Freddy was so upset, that he jumped up and down – stood on his head while playing his guitar and kazoo – and made animal sounds: “Cockle-doodle-doo, moooooo, awooooo!” Somehow his ga-ga-googoo-ing, peek-a-boo-ing, koo-chee-koo-chee-koo-ing, burbling baby brother has to save him.

Freddy’s little-baby brother wrote one word; and he was very excited! Writing can be fun at any age. Here’s a way to practice writing by sending a letter to the author of this book. You may want to include your favorite part of the book; questions about the book; questions about why or how the book was written; and anything else that you’d like to know or share.
