Storytime Magic

Written & Illustrated by Bill Greenberg

Ahhhhhhhhhh! Freddy is really panicking now. Stuck alone in his locked classroom forever; is there any magical adventure that will free him: ghosts, Frankenstein, witches, recess, wizards, pizza? Abracadabra, alacazam, hocus pocus, presto chango, shazam, ibble-de-bibble-de?

Writing a book about magic lets you be creative and use your imagination. Try writing about these fun-magical ideas: they will help you practice being an author. Maybe one of the things (you write about) will become a book someday!

- * As a magician you have the power to take yourself anywhere. Describe where you would go on your next vacation and why.
- * Invent a new magic name for yourself; and a magic trick to audition for a television show. Draw what your amazing magic trick will look like.
- * Invent a magic machine; and write a description of what the machine does.
- * As a magician your “magic potion” cannot be reversed. You turned your friend into a pizza. Describe how you will explain this to his/her family.
